

Dianne M. Bazell is a Senior Associate in the Academic Affairs division of the Council on Postsecondary Education. She received her Ph.D. from Harvard University in the Study of Religion, with a specialization in medieval Christianity, and has taught undergraduates and graduate students at Harvard and at Syracuse University. She has published several scholarly articles, as well as a critical edition of an early 14th-century Latin medical treatise. A graduate of Bowdoin College, she taught English as a Foreign Language as a Peace Corps Volunteer in Zaire (now Democratic Republic of the Congo).

Since coming to Kentucky and the Council last July, she has been (among other things) developing the policy agenda of the new State P-16 Council.
